Abhay Laijawala of Deutsche Bank said the research house expects Q1FY18 aggregate revenue growth of 7 percent, EBITDA decline of 7 percent and earnings decline of 6 percent (YoY) for the Nifty.

The 6 percent forecast decline in earnings may be exaggerated by the large YoY inventory adjustments at the oil marketing companies due to the sharp decline in global oil prices, according to him.

He feels excluding energy, Nifty earnings are expected to rise by 4 percent (YoY).

GST rollout uncertainties are forecast to impact earnings of companies focused on domestic consumption while exchange rate dynamics are likely to impact earnings of exporters, according to Laijawala.

For the Deutsche Bank coverage universe, analysts forecast revenue growth of 5 percent, EBITDA decline of 7 percent and earnings decline of 12 percent (YoY), he said.
